

VOLUNTEER GROUP HELPS ARTS CENTER CHART COURSE TO SERVE CURRENT, FUTURE GENERATIONS IN COMMUNITY

SCHENECTADY, NY — Hamilton Hill Arts Center, a Schenectady-based arts and culture organization celebrating 40 years of service, enlisted volunteers from the Executive Service Corps of the Tri-Cities (ESCOT) to help chart its course in continuing to serve generations of Capital District children and residents.

Teams from ESCOT, a nonprofit organization of retired and current senior-level managers who volunteer their time and experience by providing consulting services to help nonprofits, schools and government offices solve organizational and operational issues, aided in the Arts Center in strategic planning and building community and resource development. “Working with ESCOT has been tremendous in terms of assessing our goals and objectives for sustainability,” said Arts Center Executive Director Miki Conn. “ESCOT has given us a great next step toward our next 40 years and beyond in our efforts to provide even better programs and services to the community of Hamilton Hill, Schenectady and the Capital Region.”

Serving the greater Capital Region since 1987, the Executive Service Corps of Tri-Cities provides affordable management consulting and business advice in such areas as board and organizational development, strategic planning, human resources, financial practices and budgeting, executive coaching, employee training, information technology, and marketing. ESCOT consultants bring experience from the nonprofit, academic, public and private sectors. ESCOT is part of the national Executive Service Corps Affiliate Network, consisting of executive service corps based and independently operated in more than 30 cities across the United States.
